Royal Shakespeare Company – Young Ambassadors

Tuesday afternoon, us, the Shakespeare Ambassadors, (more commonly known as Keaton and Ellie) visited Ormiston Sudbury Academy and explored more about the great William Shakespeare. We did a wide range of activities, some of them being translating texts from his plays and discussing how we could promote Shakespeare in our school. We made a lot of new friends along the way aged from 9-16.

Some of the ways we are thinking of promoting Shakespeare in our school is by maybe forming a club or posters to put around the school, helping others to be aware about the fantastic world of William Shakespeare. The people there were very kind and supportive, if the younger people needed help in finding definitions of Shakespearian words. We discussed many plays written by him, one being 'Much ado about Nothing'. This is the play we (Cavendish Primary) are performing this year.

A letter came to us from the RSC saying we were one of the 450 Shakespeare Ambassadors across the country. The letter said that we should try and promote Shakespeare in our school, so if you are interested the RSC is willing and open to new members.
